There are a variety of options you can choose to further complement the study of Peterborough & The Great War.

Why not...

See the original surviving visitors' books and other primary sources at Peterborough Archives Service located at Vivacity Central Library. The Archives Service is very happy to work with schools to tailor the right activity for students. You might also like to meet Crystabelle Layton, our real life WUTAC lady, who can tell students about the temperance movement and what Peterborough was like for women during WW1.

If there are any other periods or historical events you're studying please get in touch to see how we can utilise our collections for your students, we've got everything from 13th century charters, through to modern documents!
